—OF THE—

SECRETARY OF STATE.

STATE OF ILLINOIS, SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 15, 1880.

To His Excellency SHELBY M. CULLOM, Governor:

SIR: I have the honor to present herewith my fourth biennial report, and the sixth report (including two by my predecessor) made by the Secretary of State since the law was enacted imposing on that officer this duty.

Under the Constitution and statute laws prior to 1870, the Secretary of State was not required to submit any report of the work performed by him, or otherwise give a statement of the transactions of his office, except when specially called upon by the Governor, or by either branch of the General Assembly; and until the provisions of the new Constitution and the various acts of the General Assembly made it necessary to carry out the spirit of the Constitution, the office was one seemingly of minor importance, and the work and the responsibilities placed upon that officer limited, when compared with the many and responsible duties and the increase of labor caused by the growth of the State, and by the various acts of the General Assembly, which have made the office of Secretary of State not only one of the most important and responsible, but one which requires the entire time and personal supervision of that officer and a number of clerks and employés for the proper discharge of his arduous and manifold duties.

In a few months I will transfer the office—which I will then have held for eight years—with its duties, labors and responsibilities, and the high honor it confers, to one of the three or four worthy and capable citizens of Illinois, who are presented by their friends for the suffrages of the people of this State, and who, in their selection of my successor, will, doubtless, make no mistake in their choice of him who will fill the important, responsible and arduous position of Secretary of State.

RECOMMENDATIONS AND SUGGESTIONS.

Before leaving this office, I feel it to be my duty to make some suggestions for the relief of my successors, in relation to the immense work and vexatious duties that fall upon the Secretary of State to fulfill and carry out, and which have increased, and are increasing, year after year, and are now more than any one official should be called upon to perform.

The experience I have had as a clerk in the office for three and one-half years, and as Secretary of State for nearly eight years, will, I think, justify me in making some suggestions and recommendations for the relief of this officer, and the transfer of some of his present duties, which I do in this report, in order that the same may receive the consideration and action of the General Assembly.

CUSTODIAN OF STATE PROPERTY.

Under the present law—with other duties—the Secretary of State is the Custodian of all the State property, and has the entire care and control of the State House, and the employés, and supervises all the policemen, watchmen, janitors and laborers necessary to preserve order and to care for and to keep the buildings in a safe and cleanly condition. He also has charge of the grounds, and the care of the same. Also, employs, and is responsible for the faithful performance of the duties of the engineers and laborers, and is also responsible for the safe condition of the large steam boilers where heat for the State House is generated, and otherwise has general oversight of the State buildings and surroundings. He also supervises the repairs and such improvements as are required; and also performs many incidental necessary duties, all of which should be removed from the official shoulders of the Secretary of State, and the duties incidental to the office of custodian of the State House and grounds placed in the care and keeping of some responsible person, to be appointed by the Governor, or by the joint action of the officers of the Executive department of State to be termed "Custodian of State Property."

This officer should have entire control and the appointment of all watchmen, policemen, janitors and laborers, and be responsible for the care of all State buildings and grounds. He should be paid a salary and placed under bonds for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office, and for the care and custody of the property under his charge and control.

This is a matter which I believe is of importance to the State, and deserves the favorable consideration of the members of the General Assembly.

CUSTODIAN OF STATE SUPPLIES.

Other ex officio duties of the Secretary of State, shared (in part) by the officer now termed the "Printer Expert," are clearly connected with the printing and binding, while the custody and furnishing of the necessary paper, stationery and other supplies for the use of the several departments of State ought to be transferred to another official.

Under the law at present the Secretary of State is obliged to give all orders for printing, not only for all the various State departments, boards and commissions, but also all that may be needed or ordered by the General Assembly.

He also receives and has control of all the stationery for use of the General Assembly and the Executive department of State, the receipt of all public documents, books, etc.,—which duties are not properly such as belong to his office, and ought to be transferred, in part, to the Printer Expert, and in part to another official to be termed "Custodian of State Supplies."

The duties of the last named official should be, to take charge of all the supplies necessary for use in the State House, to receive, have charge of and distribute all stationery and paper, and other supplies to the officers of the Executive department, the members and officers of the General Assembly, and all that may be required for the use of the State printer and binder.

This official should receive a fair, stated salary, and be placed under bonds for the faithful performance of his duties, and for the care and safe keeping of the State property placed by law in his charge.

CHANGES REGARDING STATE PRINTING AND BINDING.

The Secretary of State is also burdened with other duties that should be placed in the entire charge of the Printer Expert, or a similar officer that may be appointed.

For, if the law regarding printing be amended as has been heretofore in my reports suggested, and as it should be, and as I now again recommend, a similar officer must be appointed; but if the law regarding State printing is not amended, the transfer of the present duties of the Secretary of State, so far as the supervision of the printing and binding of the State is in question, should (as I hereafter suggest and recommend), be transferred to the present officer termed the Printer Expert, who alone, even under the present contract system for printing and binding, should have complete charge of the same.

Under the law the Secretary of State is now obliged to give all orders to the contractor for State Printing, and to receive all printed matter, and ascertain the condition and quality of the same, and to perform other duties that naturally belong to the Printer Expert.

The contract system, so far as the printing and binding of the State is concerned, has some objections and is susceptible of improvement. It would not only be a saving of time and money to the State, but would also result in having better work done, if the law was changed so that the State printing and binding could be done in the State House and under the charge of the Printer Expert, or some other officer whose duties would be of a similar nature, who should have supervision of all the printing and binding done for the State, give all orders for printing and binding, and also for paper and other material placed in charge of the "Custodian of State Supplies," an official heretofore suggested.

He should be an expert not only in printing, but also in binding, and under the law held responsible not only for the quality of the work done, but for the promptness with which all orders are executed, and to perform such other duties as naturally and incidentally belong to his position.

This officer should be appointed by the Governor or by the officers of the Executive Department, be paid a salary and placed under proper bonds.

The duties that would be assigned to the suggested officials would be such as to occupy the whole time of the incumbents, and if properly filled would result in benefit to the State, and take from the Secretary of State duties that do not properly belong to that officer and will still leave him with many and varied responsibilities and important duties sufficient to occupy his entire time and personal supervision.

As I am about to lay aside the cares, responsibilities and incidental honors attached to the occupancy of the office of Secretary of State, I can not be accused of a selfish motive in these suggestions to thus take from the Secretary of State a part of the work, which, owing to the many new duties and great increase of responsibilities placed upon him, ought not be a part of the official duties of that officer, and were I to continue in the office I would have hesitated before I would have made the suggestions that I have, but which in my judgment would nevertheless have been right and proper to have been made under any circumstances.

Now, however, as I am about to retire from office, I do not hesitate to say that the changes suggested, not only in the law regarding the State printing and binding, but also in the transferring of some of the ex-officio duties of the Secretary of State to other officials, ought to receive the careful and favorable consideration of the General Assembly.

THE NEW STATE HOUSE.

In my last report to your Excellency, I dwelt at some length on the needs of an appropriation to keep in repair the State House in its unfinished and incomplete condition.

As year after year passes, the damage by the weather and other influences to the unfinished structure becomes more and more apparent. The brick work on the unfinished fronts of the building becomes disintegrated, and other portions of the building will, in many respects, become so damaged as to require a large outlay of money to keep in repair. The roof has leaked in many places, and costs much money to keep in repair, and the dome has required watchful care and frequent repairs, which, owing to the dangers and difficulties in reaching and working thereon, has proved to be quite expensive; and the whole building, being unfinished, will (so long as it remains so) be a source not only of great annoyance to the custodian thereof, but, also, of great expense to the people of the State, in the demand for repairs, which will be continuous.

It is no economy for the people of the State to withhold their approval of a sufficient sum to finish the building; but, on the contrary, as a matter of true economy, as well as State pride, the great unfinished structure ought to be completed at an early day.

THE STATE HOUSE GROUNDS.

The difficulties and trouble experienced in keeping the grounds of the State House in decent and passable condition, have, after great labor and expense, been surmounted, and the grounds now present to the eye indications of what may be accomplished when the General Assembly see proper to appropriate anything for such a purpose.

At the session of the last General Assembly the Joint Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds had a meeting, and after a careful survey made by a sub-committee, composed of experts, it was recommended that about $30,000 be appropriated to make the necessary repairs and improvements on the State House and grounds. This report of the sub-committee was approved by the joint committee and recommended in their report to the appropriation committee that such amount be appropriated. This was cut down in the General Assembly to $10,000 per year for all purposes—care of building, improvements, laborers, water rents, etc., etc.,—so that it was impossible to do but very little in the way of repairs or improvements; but, by strict economy, I have used a part of this appropriation to improve the State House grounds, and believe the money has been well expended; and, while both the building and grounds are still in a very unsatisfactory and unfinished condition, yet, when compared with what they were when placed in my custody, I hope the people will have no reason to think that I have been neglectful of my duty as custodian of the same.

THE ADDITIONAL GROUND FOR NEW STATE HOUSE.

In my last biennial report, dated Oct. 1, 1878, I gave to your Excellency a full and detailed statement of all the steps taken up to date of said report, under and by virtue of an act of the 30th General Assembly, entitled "An act to secure to the State of Illinois four acres of additional grounds lying south of and adjoining the capital grounds," approved May 21, 1877, in force July 1, 1877, and I have thought it proper that I should give you a statement of the status of this matter up to Oct. 1st, 1880, at which date this report closes.

As stated in my last report, every step and every requirement of the act referred to had been taken and carried out in strict compliance with the law, and the obligors of the bonds given to the people having failed to avail themselves of the privileges given in section 5 of said act, viz :

SECTION 5. In case the condemnation of said land shall be necessary, and the obligors in said bonds shall not, within thirty days after the report of said condemnation shall be filed with the Secretary of State, pay to the Treasurer of this State the total sum so reported by said commissioners as compensation for the lands so condemned and taken or damaged, together with all costs and charges of said condemnation, it shall be the duty of the Attorney General of this State, and he is hereby required to institute suit on said bond and collect from the obligors thereof, the aggregate amount of the compensation so awarded, to the owner or owners of said lands, and the costs and charges of said condemnation; and upon making such collection he shall pay the same into the state treasury—and due notice having been given, the Attorney General did, in conformity with said section, on the 20th day of August, 1878, commence suit on said bond in the Circuit Court of Sangamon county, in the name of the People of the State of Illinois vs. John T. Stuart et al., and filed all the necessary papers.

The case was argued on demurrers to declaration and pleas by counsel at the September term, 1878, of the Sangamon county Circuit Court, Judge Welch presiding.

The case was held under advisement until Dec. 19, 1879, when the court sustained the demurrer to the plaintiffs' declaration. The plaintiffs elected to stand by their declaration, and appealed to the Supreme Court, to the January term, 1880. At that term the case was submitted to the court by counsel for the respective parties, on printed briefs, and is now pending in said court.

STATE CONTRACTS COMPLETED.

The contracts made by the Commissioners of State Contracts two years ago all expired by limitation on the 30th day of September, 1880, and, in compliance with the law on this subject, I have the honor to report the cost to the State of each and every contract, which were for the following objects, viz:

The contract for State binding was awarded to J. P. Rokker. The Commissioners of State Contracts, up to the date of this report, having made no final settlement of the same, I cannot give the exact cost of the work done under this contract, but the estimated amount is about $17,000.

*NOTE.—In the account with Messrs. Gehring & Boos, and Messrs. Weber & Co., the amount of the voucher given them upon settlement was less than the amount of contract, this amount being for paper received by them and not returned as the law directs. This will account for the difference in the figures here given and those given in the Auditor's report of the same contract.

The last General Assembly made a biennial appropriation of $20,000, of which sum there has been used $13,161.86, leaving on hand, unexpended and available, the sum of $6,838.14.

From the appropriation for lighting the State House there was unexpended, at the close of my last report, $4,620.44. Of that amount there was expended, to the close of the fiscal year, $4,470.64, leaving a balance of $149.80 unexpended, which lapsed to the treasury, and from the biennial appropriation of $8,000 made by the 31st General Assembly, there has been expended for this purpose the sum of $3,999.23, leaving on hand, unexpended and available, the sum of $6,400.77.

From the appropriation made by the 31st General Assembly for the purchase of such volumes of reports of decisions of the Supreme Court as required by law, there has been expended the sum of $6,788.25.

From the appropriation of $19,000 for the care and custody of the State House and grounds, and incidental expenses, made by the 30th General Assembly, there was on hand, at the date of my last report, $876.86. This amount was expended before the meeting of the 31st General Assembly, and until July 1st, 1878, the incidental expenses of both the State and the General Assembly were paid from a special appropriation of $15,000, of which I have heretofore in this report explained.

The 31st General Assembly, for the usual incidental expenses of the State, and for the care, custody and improvement of the State House and grounds, appropriated the sum of $20,000 for the two years 1879 and 1880. Of this amount there has been expended the sum of $19,333.87, leaving on hand and available the sum of $666.13.

DEPARTMENT OF INDEXES AND ARCHIVES.

The Department of Indexes and Archives, in the department of State, was organized July 1st, 1874.

The authority for organizing the department is in the 5th clause of section 5 of "An Act to revise the law in relation to the Secretary of State," approved March 30, 1874, in force July 1, 1874, which reads: "5. To make and keep proper indexes to the executive records and all public acts, resolutions, papers and documents in his office." The necessity for organizing this department is in the surprising fact that no proper indexes of the State archives prior to that date had been kept during the existence of the Territorial or State governments.

The first thing to be done was to devise a plan of classification and arrangement, and a system of indexing so comprehensive as to meet the requirements of time and the demands of the office, and simple enough to be of easy reference. This important part of the work was so successfully accomplished that, up to this time, no modification has been found necessary, and the wants of the office and the public have been fully and satisfactorily met.

It was deemed most important that the public acts and resolves of the General Assembly, and the incorporations organized under general law, should be first put in order and properly indexed. The demands upon the Secretary of State for reference to these files are constant, and a proper discharge of his duties had become almost impossible, without the assistance of convenient indexes.

Perhaps I could not give a more satisfactory resume of the work during its progress than to insert here such extracts from my reports of 1874, 1876 and 1878, as refer to the subject.

In my report of 1874, a general outline of the intended work was given as follows :

"Commencing with the territorial organizations, embracing the Northwestern Territory, organized in 1788; the Indiana Territory, organized 1801; Illinois Territory, organized 1809, each exercising legislative and executive jurisdiction within the present limits of this State during the several periods of their existence. The files and records relating to these territorial governments will be collected and, so far as possible, all missing papers replaced by certified copies from the printed records, or transcripts from the originals whenever and wherever they can be found. Then, commencing with the organization of the State Government in 1818, the same course will be pursued, the object being to make full and complete files, forming an archive of the State, in which may be traced, with reasonable accuracy and genuine satisfaction, its political history properly authenticated."

* * * * *

"The plan of the indexes is at once as simple, systematic and comprehensive as experience, the wants of the office and the good of the public would seem to indicate. And while absolute perfection is not expected or promised, my confidence in the system adopted is such that I have no fears as to its success."

* * * * *

"The importance of these indexes, as a convenience to this office, is difficult to appreciate, and its value to the public is more likely to be under than over estimated by those not conversant by actual experience with the demand upon this office in the regular course of business. It is a matter too long neglected already, and its completion is alike demanded by public interests and economy. In my years of practical experience as a clerk in the State department, as well as in the capacity of principal, I have seen and felt the necessity of this work, and I only follow the example of my predecessors, who also "learned in the school of experience," in calling the attention of the General Assembly, through your Excellency, to a matter of such pressing and growing importance, and I most respectfully ask that you recommend such appropriation for the necessary clerical labor which may be required to continue the work, as in the good judgment of the members of that honorable body may seem best."

* * * * *

In my report of 1876 I took occasion to refer to the subject in the language set forth in the following extracts:

"This Centennial year has furnished convincing proof of the sacredness of past history to the people. The demand upon this office during this year for facts and information in making up Centennial history and sketches has been constant, from all parts of the State, and from almost every county. The index, incomplete as it is, still did wonderful service in complying with this demand. Many a link long since lost or forgotten in the history of the early counties was supplied by this means, which, without it, would have been an impossibility.

"The index is not alone confined to the original laws on file in this office, but each law, as it is indexed, is compared with the printed law, and the page of the printed edition with the session, entered on the index, thus making the reference complete and invaluable, not only to this office, but to the legal profession and the courts, for tracing the law on any given subject through the entire course of legislation in this State.

"In addition to the general index, an index for each county is being prepared, each county being indexed in a separate book. The object of these indexes is to group, under appropriate headings, the legislation relating directly or indirectly to any of the counties in the State, and index the subject to the county to which it belongs. Frequent inquiries are made for information concerning counties, or it may be the inquiry will be put in this form: 'Was there ever such law passed relating to some matter in such county?'

"In such a case the subject legislated upon is no guide to the county, and this index is being made to supply the want. Road surveys, for instance, run through several counties in almost every instance, yet frequently only one county is named in the law when several are included. The intention is to make the index to each county so complete that its history can be traced in detail, commencing with the organization of the county, which is carefully noted; this is followed by any changes in its boundaries, location and removal of the county seat, the organization of cities, towns and villages, incorporated companies, concerning the revenues, schools, school lands, settlement of estates, roads, bridges, mills and dams, etc., in short, a complete index to all legislation affecting any particular county, or any of its inhabitants at any period of its history."

* * * * *

The following extracts, taken from my report of 1878, will show the progress and condition of the work at that time:

"In addition to the large number of valuable papers, enrolled laws and other important documents deposited in the upper vault of this office, and now being carefully classified and indexed, there is in the lower vault a vast accumulation of papers and documents of more or less value—yellow with age—containing much valuable historical and legislative information, comprising no small part of the archives of the territory as well as the State of Illinois.

"These papers and documents consist in part of the following, viz: Bonds of State officers, commissioners of public buildings, circuit and county clerks, recorders and sheriffs, State's attorneys and coroners, fund commissioners, Indian traders, paymasters of Illinois militia, State contractors, notaries public, trustees of various State charitable institutions, and many other bonds of a similar nature. Also, bids and proposals for all kinds of State contracts; also receipts for supreme court reports, revised statutes, constitutional convention journals and debates, geological reports, laws, journals and other State documents, leases of saline lands, auditor's certificates of internal improvement lands, certificates of canal lands, lots and claims, executive record papers, election returns, certificates of election, abstracts of votes, etc., appointment of agents for school and seminary lands and swamp lands, papers relating to State and branch banks, boundary line of public lands, original engrossed bills, petitions, resolutions, messages and documents appertaining to the various sessions of the General Assembly, maps of the survey of the Illinois Central Railroad, manuscript copies of the Constitutions of the State of Illinois, reports of State officers, charitable and penal institutions, original Senate and House journals, State and United States census, and a host of other equally important documents."

* * * * *

I have to add, at this time, that the work has been continued, since my last report, on the same general plan and system as at first devised, and that substantial progress has been made.

The enrolled laws of the 25th General Assembly, session of 1867, are now being indexed, and by the time the 32d General Assembly meets, the index to include this session will be complete. The corporation indexes have been kept up with the current business of the office; and in addition thereto the vast accumulation of official documents in the vaults of the first floor have been and are being sorted, classified, arranged and indexed, and placed in a condition that will enable any officer, in the future, to find any paper or document that has been deposited in the vaults.

In concluding this subject of my report, I desire to call your attention to the fact that the manuscript or official copies of the journals of the General Assembly, and many of the printed copies, and the executive records, have no indexes whatever; and since the courts are holding so closely to the record of deliberative bodies as the authority for an enactment, the demand for transcripts is increasing rapidly.

As soon as the indexing of the enrolled laws is completed, I respectfully suggest that a complete index to the journals of each session of the General Assembly since the organization of the State is almost indispensable, and an index to the executive records is also imperatively demanded.

I have no doubt your Excellency will recommend that the appropriation for indexing will be continued. The State can make no better outlay of money, and members can serve their constituents to no better purpose than by investigating this subject fully and making proper provisions therefor.

STATE LIBRARY.

It is very gratifying to me to be able to report to your Excellency that, after repeated suggestions made in the various reports from this office and the hearty approval and recommendation of yourself and your predecessors, an appropriation of $6,000 for the State Library was made by the 31st General Assembly.

The Library Committee of both Senate and House met in joint session and recommended a much larger sum, but it was finally agreed in the Appropriation Committee to place the sum at $3,000 per annum for 1879 and 1880. The needs of the State Library were so apparent that there was but little opposition to this item in the appropriation bill as it finally passed.

The Library Commissioners,—receiving most valuable aid from E. F. Leonard, the Governor's private secretary, Dr. A. W. French and Mr. J. P. Bryce, of Springfield, all three being gentlemen of great literary taste and culture,—have purchased a large number of most valuable books. It has been the aim of the commissioners to place on the shelves of the State Library the class of books that seemed to them to be the most important, and those that would fill the expectations of those who have occasion to use the library, either in their official capacity or as citizens of the State; and in order that I might act in accordance with the views of many of the members of the last General Assembly, and also to get aid from the experience of others as to the class of books needed for the library, I sent a circular to a large number of members, to professors of our colleges and to librarians of the various libraries in our State, and I am pleased to say that many of the books purchased by the commissioners were procured upon the recommendation of the gentlemen who, by invitation, made the suggestions asked for by me.

While the law provides that none but State officers, Judges of courts, members of the General Assembly, and a few others, can take books from the library, yet I have taken it for granted that the use of all the books, under the restrictions of the law, was free to all citizens who might visit the library; and the result is, it has become one of the popular resorts of a large number of our citizens, many of whom visit the Capitol especially to obtain the information they seek, and which can not be found in any other library in the State, except, may be, those in Chicago; and not a day passes during which the books in the State Library are not referred to by officials, as well as by many private citizens.

Since the adjournment of the last General Assembly, I have caused to be made a number of changes and improvements in the arrangement of the library. Wood and glass doors have been made and placed in every alcove, adding much to the appearance of the room, and keeping the books clean from dust and safe from the handling of the curious; and as these doors are locked, and the key in the possession of the clerk in charge of the library, it will also prevent, what has happened in the past, the misplacement, and sometimes the disappearance, of a number of valuable volumes. I have also had filled up with alcoves the room below the Secretary of State's office, and now use it as the Document Library, there being no room for the same in the State Library of miscellaneous books. This Document Library contains all books sent to the State by other State authorities, in exchange for books of a similar nature sent to them by this State.

These books comprise the Laws, Reports, Journals, Constitutions, Statutes, etc., etc., and are frequently referred to by members of the Legislature during the sessions of the General Assembly.

The State Library is now more worthy the name than it was two years ago; for, though it must suffer when compared with the great libraries of the older States, yet, as a working library it is in its selections almost perfect. It now contains, as its catalogue shows, nearly all the leading works on political and social science, and on the science of government, both British and American, with a selection of the best encyclopedias, dictionaries, and those works of reference which constitute the real value of every library. Indeed, the collection is now so valuable and useful that I feel that all who have in any way assisted to place it in its present condition ought to be congratulated; and it seems to me that now the work has been commenced, there should be no halting, but each General Assembly should make an appropriation for the yearly expenditure of some fixed amount which will enable the Library Commissioners, in a few years, to make the library one of the most complete and valuable in this country.

When the splendid collection of 75,000 volumes belonging to the State of New York, and the 53,000 belonging to Pennsylvania, are considered, it is evident our State has a great work before it, and when it is further remembered that the young State of the northwest, Wisconsin, has something more than 40,000 volumes in the State Library, we see that Illinois is still far behind in the material and size of her State Library.

And outside of our own land, we learn that even far distant Australia has its great and valuable libraries. The city of Sydney owns a collection of 25,000 volumes, and the younger city of Melbourne has three collections, two of them each as large as that of Sydney, and one possessing no less than 68,000 volumes, and among its treasures is a complete set of the London Times, which cost $5,000.

If our Australian cousins can, and do, own such splendid and valuable collections, and if Caxtons and Wynkin de Wordes are to be found at the antipodes, what should our great Prairie State possess in the way of literature?

There is one feature in literature, it seems to me, the State Library should possess, and that is, our own domestic history in its completest form. Our library should have on its shelves, or in its archives, all the materials necessary from which to compile a history of our State. One such collection was destroyed in the Chicago fire, and another should be made and placed in safe-keeping here. We have a fire-proof building, and a room well fitted to contain and preserve all the volumes extant on Illinois history, from the early wanderings of LaSalle and Joliet to our own days. Every year will make it more difficult to gather together such a collection, and in a century volumes which are now common will have become rare or passed away beyond recall. So far as could be done, the commissioners have purchased all the books attainable relating to the early as well as the later history of our State, as many books on the shelves will show. But the work begun should be continued, and every book, however seemingly unimportant, which has any historic value, should be purchased for the use of the future historian of Illinois.

Knowing the great interest your Excellency has heretofore taken in the success and welfare of the library, I trust that you will, in your biennial message to the Legislature, make such recommendations as, in your judgment, may seem wise and prudent for its future advancement and best interests.

To Mr. J. P. Bryce, in conjunction with others, is due the credit of preparing the most excellent and complete index to and catalogue of the books now in the State Library and the Supreme Court Library, all of which is contained in one volume and arranged in a most convenient manner for reference, and in every respect is one of the most valuable catalogues ever published.

NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES DONATED FOR USE IN THE STATE LIBRARY.

One of the most valuable auxiliaries to the dissemination of information to the people is the newspapers and magazines published in our country. There are published in the State about 747 newspapers—daily, weekly and monthly; and of that number 206 have been sent to the State Library gratuitously, for the use not only of the officials, but for the thousands of citizens who have visited the Capitol, and who have derived much satisfaction in reading the newspapers found on file and arranged for public use.

The newspapers and magazines that have been donated for the use of the State Library during the past two years are as follows, viz:

SUPREME COURT REPORTS.

Under the law directing the Secretary of State to purchase and distribute each Volume of the Reports of the Supreme Court of this State as fast as possible, I gave in my last report a full and detailed statement of the first purchase under the law up to Oct. 1st 1878, at which time $26,271.00 had been paid Hon. N. L. Freeman for volumes of the reports which the Secretary of State by law was directed to purchase from him.

During the two years ending Oct. 1st, 1880, in compliance with law I have received from Mr. Freeman 378 copies each of volumes 85, 86, 87, 88, and 376 copies each of volumes 89, 90, 91, and 377 copies of volume 92, making in the aggregate 3017 copies, for which he received $2.25 for each copy, amounting to the sum of $6,271.26, which, added to the $26,271 heretofore paid him, amounts to the sum of $33,059.25 for Supreme Court Reports received and distributed by the Secretary of State as the law directs up to Oct. 1st, 1880.

Of the copies of each volume that have been delivered to the Secretary of State the following distribution has been made as provided by law :

Five copies to the library of Congress.
 One copy to the President of the United States.
 One copy to each State and Territorial library.
 One copy to each judge of the Supreme Court of this State.
 One copy to each judge of the Circuit Courts of this State.
 One copy to each judge of the Superior Court of Cook county.
 One copy to the judge of each city court in the State.
 One copy to each clerk of the courts of record in this State.
 One copy to each law institute in this State.
 One copy to each State officer required to reside at the seat of government.
 Five copies deposited in each library of the Supreme Court of this State, and Twenty copies deposited in the State library for the use of the State.

Since my last report I have received Supreme Court reports from various States and Territories in exchange for those of this State sent them, as follows :

GEOLOGICAL REPORTS.

The entire edition of the State Geological Report has been exhausted by distribution as the law directs, except volume 6, of which there are still on hand 1,156 volumes.

This 6th volume is the last of the published report, and those who have the other five volumes are entitled to this, the last volume.

The distribution of the first four volumes was made without any systematized plan, and there is no record who received them; hence the large number of the 6th volume remaining on hand.

Since my last report I have given copies of volume 5 to those having a majority of the preceding volumes, and have also given copies of volume 6 to those having the other volumes.

I am informed by Professor A. H. Worthen, formerly State Geologist, and who edited the reports, and who is now the curator of the Natural History Museum, that he has new material enough in relation to the Geology of our State to fill a volume of the same size as those published, and he only awaits the action of the General Assembly, ordering its publication, to give to the people the valuable information therein contained.

The Geological Reports of the State of Illinois rank as among the best published in that branch of science, and the demand for the full sets, or even the odd volumes of this work, is very great and continuous.

In my last report I gave the kind and number of copies of books, including laws, journals, reports, etc., which by law are directed to be published by the State. Since then the General Assembly have directed other publications, and I now give, for information, the total number of volumes to be published by the State in pursuance of law:

RAILROAD INCORPORATIONS, CONSOLIDATIONS, ETC.

The law providing for the incorporation of associations that may be organized for the construction, maintenance and operating of railways, etc., etc., in force March 1st, 1872, seems to meet the want of those interested in the construction of such improvements in this State, and I have deemed it proper to give, in this report, a full and complete list of such companies as have complied with the law, and whose articles of association have been recorded in the office of the Secretary of State since March 1st, 1872 (the date the law took effect), and also such other papers, either articles of consolidation, or the by-laws, etc., of such companies as have deemed it proper to have the same recorded, all of which are duly noted.

This abstract of the files and record gives name of the corporation, the location of its principal office and its capital stock, and other information, and is as follows:

It may be needless for me to say that it is presumable that some of the above organized companies have now no active life, simply having a legal existence; they are not now, and have not been since their organization, in operation; and yet doubtless a large majority of the organizations recorded in this office are bona fide incorporations, adding to the business and wealth of our State, but any knowledge of the present status of these organizations, so far as the law provides, can not be obtained from the records in this office. There should be some law requiring a report to be made to the Secretary of State by these corporations, entering largely into detail, and supplying information concerning their working and management, which subject I more fully refer to hereafter in this report.

SUGGESTIONS IN RELATION TO CORPORATIONS.

The several statute laws and amendments thereto authorizing the organization of corporations are without doubt open to as little objection as any laws of a similar nature in other States, but it is my opinion that the law in relation to corporations for the several classes mentioned therein, also that in relation to railroads and loan associations, should be so amended that the power that creates these corporations can, after the organization thereof, be placed in a condition to receive information as to their business and status. I am in frequent receipt of letters from all parts of the Union asking information as to the organization and standing of corporations organized under the laws of this State. The present law does not provide that after the organization of a company it shall ever again have any official connection with the power that gave it life. On the contrary, companies organized under the present law are like ships builded and launched from our ports which sail away from our shores, and, so far as is ever known, are lost among and become a part of the navies of other nations. Many of these corporations no doubt do a legitimate business, while others, under the color of authority from the State, are preying upon the people without let or hindrance. What I would suggest for the consideration of the General Assembly is, that the various laws regarding organization of corporations be so amended that the incorporated companies shall be required to make annual or semi-annual reports of their business, the amount of capital stock actually used, the kind of business and its extent, the number of men employed, and such other information as may be of interest to the people and legitimate and proper for them to know.

Of the thousands of corporations organized in this State since July 1, 1872, and also those heretofore in this report named in detail, there is no evidence, so far as the records of this office show, that even one is transacting the business for which it has State authority.

There should be some closer connection between the State and its authorized corporations than now exists under the present law. The State grants privileges to corporations, but asks for no return even of information that would, no doubt, be willingly given by every legitimate corporation, in relation to such matters as are now eagerly sought after by those who are desirous of making Illinois their home, or investing capital therein. Every year I receive letters from the U. S. Department of State, and from authorities of foreign countries, asking for official information regarding these corporations, that I can not give, but which could be given if these corporations were compelled to report either to this or some other department.

STATISTICAL INFORMATION.

The enactment of a law for gathering statistical information upon all subjects that affect the interests of our State, and which, if known, would be of great value to our citizens, has been recommended in my former reports; and at the last session of the General Assembly a bill was introduced for the organization of a Bureau of Statistics, which, if it had become a law, would have met all the requirements of the objects sought to be attained. The bill failed to pass, and instead thereof a bill for "An act to create a Bureau of Labor Statistics, and to provide for a board of commissioners and a secretary," was passed, and became a law July 1, 1879.

While in some respects this law will result in gathering a large amount of useful information, it has been found to be defective in very many respects, as will be seen by reference to the report of the able, industrious and indefatigable secretary of that board.

Now, if every corporation was compelled, through its proper officers, to report to the Secretary of State every year, the Board of Labor Statistics, even under the imperfect law now in force, would be enabled to receive a large amount of valuable information not otherwise attainable, incorporate the same in their reports and give it to that class of our citizens who are most deeply interested.

The present law regarding labor statistics ought to be amended and made more comprehensive in its nature, and the powers of the board enlarged, in order that the law may result in that good to the people that doubtless was intended.

PUBLICATION OF THE JOURNALS AND ACTS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Upon the Secretary of State devolves the supervision of the publication of the laws and journals of each General Assembly.

These journals and enrolled laws at the close of each session are placed in the custody of that officer, and copies of the same made for the contractor for State printing, and said copies compared under direction of the Secretary of State, an exact copy being made of the same.

In the journals and enrolled acts of each session of the General Assembly many errors have been noticed after the adjournment of that body, but as no one has any authority to correct such errors, they have been published as written, the Secretary of State having no more right to make a change in the journals than he has to change the reading of an enrolled act of the General Assembly.

Therefore, acting upon my experience of many years in this office, in which I have been placed in close and intimate relation with the General Assembly, and in what I deemed a proper performance of my duty as Secretary of State, I did, in my last report to your Excellency, suggest and recommend that some action be taken by the General Assembly for the daily publication of the journal of each branch of said Assembly. I then suggested, as I now again suggest, as a remedy for the grievous errors that have heretofore been found in the journals of every session of the Assembly, the "daily publication of every day's proceedings, to be laid on the desk of each member the morning following, thus giving to every one the opportunity to correct any errors in their record that might appear, and the clerk could also see if each step in legislation has been taken as the law directs and been properly noted in the journal kept by him. The daily journal, after corrections have been made, could be printed as the law provides; and after the General Assembly had adjourned, the work of binding would comparatively take but little time, and the journals of both the House and Senate could be distributed to the members and the several counties in the State months before they possibly can be under the present law on the subject, and in a much more satisfactory shape."

I also quote from a letter written by one of the distinguished and oldest of the present State Senators, who has had many years experience in the Legislature, and who is warmly in favor of the suggestions made by me two years ago. He says: "The recommendations made by the Secretary of State are both wise and timely, because—

"1. Great public interests are involved in correcting passing laws, and having this shown by a correct journal. Instances are recent where expensive litigation, and overturning of supposed laws, came from imperfect legislation or erroneous journals. It is overwhelmingly important that all possible care be used to insure accuracy. To daily present to each member, in a convenient form, a record of the proceedings, makes each a critic, and, it may be said, insures accuracy.

"2. It will greatly facilitate legislation, as each member will have a compact and convenient record of what is doing and what has been done, in each house, and may, therefore, know the exact status of every measure. New members are frequently confused an entire session by the complex machinery of legislation, and are nearly powerless from a want of knowledge as to how to do, and the condition of the various matters involved. This gives the experienced few a great advantage over the many. To the inexperienced, legislation is nearly a chaos. This daily record, to be preserved and examined, will illuminate the work and be an instructor to all who strive to learn. Parliamentary law and the methods of doing business will be more clearly perceived.

"The journals of the two houses are now printed at the public expense, and bound in volumes for public use. But this is all done after the adjournment of the General Assembly! This proposition is to print as the session proceeds, and it is not easy to see why it should add much, if any, to the cost. The same forms may be used for the use of the members, and the matter afterwards bound in the volumes as the law directs.

"Believing that—1, it will greatly tend to accuracy; 2, facilitate business; 3, educate members to usefulness; 4, cause legislation to run more smoothly; and, 5, save money—I think the Secretary of State is entitled to the public thanks for his wise and timely recommendation."

Believing that the remedy for evils arising from the imperfect record of the proceedings of the session of the General Assembly is in the daily publication and revision of the journals of the same, I would respectfully suggest that the matter be laid before the members of the 32d General Assembly by your Excellency, with such recommendations as you may deem right and proper.

PUBLICATION OF THE LAWS.

In my last report to your Excellency I recommended that some action be taken by the General Assembly for the early and general dissemination among the people of the enactments of the Legislature. As servants of the people, members should do what possibly can be done to keep their constituents promptly informed of their acts and doings.

I then said what I now most emphatically repeat, that in relation to the public acts of the General Assembly I would most respectfully suggest the passage of an act authorizing each newspaper in the State to publish every act of the General Assembly as soon as the same became a law, by virtue of the Governor's approval or otherwise.

This could be done at a nominal cost, and would be of incalculable value to the people, who are expected to obey a law as soon as it takes effect, which, under the present system, is not published for months after the same is approved and has taken effect.

By the publication of every law as soon as it is approved by the Governor (or otherwise becomes a law of the State) in the manner before suggested, the people and corporations are advised of the new duties that have been placed upon them, or of any changes that may have been made in the statute law of the State. It is not fair to presume, on the part of our law-makers, that the people can obey or abide by the provisions of a law of the State when they have no means of obtaining knowledge of its various requirements; therefore the publication in some proper manner, similar to that herein suggested, would be of great benefit and save much trouble, confusion and expense to the people of the State.

This is a subject of much greater importance than is generally supposed, and while it will cost the State some money, yet it will be a trifling sum (in comparison with other, and, I think, less important matters). But it will be for the benefit and information of the people, who are taxed to pay all other expenses of the General Assembly from which they derive no particular benefit, and a large majority of whom would most heartily indorse this expenditure of money, to be thus officially informed of the acts of the General Assembly.

As is known, the laws of the State are published under the contract for public printing, and as the session of the General Assembly often extends into the month of May, and a large majority of bills do not finally pass until the close of each session, the Secretary of State not receive from the hands of the State printer or binder any copies of the laws, and none are distributed as the law directs, until after July 1 following the close of said session; and being sent to the county clerks, the people do not receive them, and are not informed as to the change in the law, or what may be a new enactment, which they are expected to obey, until long after the law takes effect. Therefore I do think that, as a duty the General Assembly owes to the people, there should be some means for a more prompt and general diffusion of their acts, and a knowledge of the laws which every citizen is expected to obey.

For this purpose I do not know of a more sure and satisfactory means than the publication of all laws about which the people should have information, in the newspapers of our State, and I trust that the suggestions made upon this and kindred subjects may receive the approbation of your Excellency and the favorable consideration of the members of the 32d General Assembly.

THE ENROLLING AND ENGROSSING OF LAWS.

Another important subject with which the duties of the Secretary of State have close connection is the correct engrossing and enrolling of the laws of the General Assembly.

No officer of that body has more responsible duties to perform, or that require so much general information, ability and careful attention as that of the chief Enrolling and Engrossing Clerk of either branch of the Assembly, and the chairmanship of no committee demands more attention to the duties of the office, or more full and complete understanding of the intention of the introducer of a bill for an act, or who should be so well versed in all the various phases of legislation, and the actual meaning of every section of every bill to be enrolled, as the chairman and also the members of the joint committee of the General Assembly on engrossed and enrolled bills. For upon this committee and its clerk the members of the Legislature rely for a correct enrollment of every bill prepared and to be submitted to the Governor for his action.

After every session, for many years past, my attention has been called to errors made by some of the clerks having charge of this important matter. This is a subject of public interest, and I deem it my duty to call attention to it, in order that the members of the General Assembly may fully and fairly discuss the subject and act as their good judgment may dictate in their selection of the clerks and members of said committees.

AMENDMENTS TO THE STATE CONSTITUTION.

Since the date the present Constitution of the State took effect, viz., Aug. 8th, 1870, there has been but one amendment proposed by the General Assembly and ratified by the people, and that was section 31, article 4, of said Constitution, which was mentioned in my last report, and reads as follows:

§ 31. The General Assembly may pass laws permitting the owners of lands to construct drains, ditches and levees for agricultural, sanitary or mining purposes, across the lands of others, and provide for the organization of drainage districts, and vest the corporate authorities thereof with power to construct and maintain levees, drains and ditches, and to keep in repair all drains, ditches and levees heretofore constructed under the laws of this State, by special assessments upon the property benefited thereby.

This amendment was adopted by the people at an election held Nov. 5th, 1878, by a vote in the affirmative of 295,960, and in the negative of 60,081; giving a majority of 235,879, and, by proclamation of your Excellency, became an operative section of the Constitution the 29th day of November, 1878.

THE SECOND PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION.

Pursuant to law in relation thereto, the 31st General Assembly of the State adopted a joint resolution submitting a proposed amendment to the 8th section of the 10th article of the Constitution; and, in pursuance of law, I published, on the 1st day of July, 1880, the following notice, viz:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS.

NOTICE TO THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS.

Pursuant to the requirements of law, I, Geo. H. Harlow, Secretary of the State of Illinois, do hereby give notice to the people of said State of Illinois that at the session of the Thirty-first General Assembly of the State of Illinois, begun and held in the city of Springfield, the capital of said State, on the 3d day of January, A. D. 1879, the following joint resolution was adopted, by a two-third vote of each branch of the General Assembly, viz:

Resolved by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring herein, That there shall be submitted to the voters of this State, at the next election for members of the General Assembly, a proposition to so amend the eighth (8) section of the tenth (10) article of the Constitution of this State, so that the same may read as follows: "In each county there shall be elected the following county officers: At the general election, to be held on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1882, a County Judge, County Clerk, Sheriff and Treasurer; and at the election to be held on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1884, a Coroner and Clerk of the Circuit Court (who may be ex-officio Recorder of Deeds, except in counties having 60,000 and more inhabitants, in which counties a Recorder of Deeds shall be elected, at the general election in 1884.) Each of said officers shall enter upon the duties of his office, respectively, on the first Monday of December after his election, and they shall hold their respective offices for the term of four years, and until their successors are elected and qualified: Provided, that no person having once been elected to the office of Sheriff or Treasurer shall be eligible to re-election to said office for four years after the expiration of the term for which he shall have been elected."

In further compliance with law, I also hereby give notice that at the election to be held on Tuesday, the 2d day of November, A. D. 1880, in said State of Illinois, the electors will vote for or against the adoption of the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Illinois, viz:

"ARTICLE 10, SECTION 8. In each county there shall be elected the following county officers: At the general election to be held on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1882, a County Judge, County Clerk, Sheriff and Treasurer, and at the election to be held on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1884, a Coroner, and Clerk of the Circuit Court, (who may be ex-officio Recorder of Deeds, except in counties having 60,000 and more inhabitants, in which counties a Recorder of Deeds shall be elected at the general election in 1884.) Each of said officers shall enter upon the duties of his office, respectively, on the first Monday of December after his election, and they shall hold their respective offices for the term of four years, and until their successors are elected and qualified: Provided, that no person having once been elected to the office of Sheriff or Treasurer shall be eligible to re-election to said office for four years after the expiration of the term for which he shall have been elected."

Now, be it known, if the foregoing proposed amendment to Article 10, Section 8, of the Constitution of the State shall receive a majority of the votes of the electors voting at said election, the result will be so proclaimed by the Governor as is provided by law.

Witness my hand, and the Great Seal of State, affixed at Springfield, the capital of the State of Illinois, this 1st day of July, A. D. 1880.

GEO. H. HARLOW,
Secretary of State of the State of Illinois.

This notice was also sent to every County Clerk in the State and their attention called to the requirements of the law in such cases made and provided.

As this proposed amendment is somewhat radical in its changes of the section, it will no doubt receive from the electors the consideration that its importance demands.

STATE CENSUS.

Under the provisions of a statute of this State (now repealed), providing for taking the census of this State, a mass of manuscript accumulated and is now in the custody of the Secretary of State.

The necessity of procuring the information regarding the population, resources, wealth, capabilities and possibilities of our State, is, in my opinion, a matter of great importance, and while to some extent it is being accomplished by the State Board of Equalization, the Board of Agriculture, and the Bureau of Labor Statistics, with further legislation, possibly all the information as to the population, resources, capabilities, etc., could be ascertained by these Boards.

The General Government has just concluded the very important work of taking the census of this and other States, and the magnificent showing in the growth of population and of various kinds of industries in our own State is a matter of just pride to every Illinoisan.

This work of the General Government is done every ten years, and as the growth of Illinois and the increase of every branch of industries will more rapidly develop in the future than in the past, and as the knowledge of such growth and prosperity will be of incalculable benefit to the State, I would suggest, as I have heretofore, that the matter receive from the General Assembly the serious and thoughtful consideration that the subject deserves, and that a law be enacted whereby a census of a general character can be taken by the State independent of that taken by the General Government.

STATE HISTORICAL LIBRARY AND NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM.

The law establishing the State Historical Library and Natural History Museum does not provide for any report to be made, either to the Governor or the General Assembly, but the precedent having been established to note its condition and progress in the report of the Secretary of State (who, with the Governor and Superintendent of Public Instruction, is a member of the board of trustees of that library and museum), I have deemed it proper to incorporate the full and interesting report made by Prof. A. H. Worthen, the curator, regarding its present condition, its growth, its objects, its influence among scientists, and its needs for the future:

To the Board of Trustees of the State Historical Library and Natural History Museum:

GENTLEMEN:—Since the last biennial report of the Secretary of State, the State Natural History Museum has made steady progress in increasing its collections in natural history, both from the work of the State Laboratory of Natural History, at Normal, and by extensive exchanges with foreign scientific institutions, using for the latter purpose the large surplus of duplicates gathered during the prosecution of the geological survey. These exchanges may be indefinitely extended, until the State museum shall contain characteristic specimens of all the principal geological formations known throughout the civilized world.

In the departments of geology, mineralogy and paleontology, no further appropriation will be needed, other than a small amount to be used in collecting at such localities as were necessarily neglected in the prosecution of the field work of the geological survey. Such localities should be revisited by a competent collector, for the purpose of obtaining duplicates of many rare fossils that are now only represented by unique specimens.

The collection of Illinois birds has been completed by Mr. Chas. K. Worthen in accordance with the original catalogue, and the collection of Illinois fishes is nearly complete, and I hope to have them all on the shelves of the museum before the meeting of the next General Assembly.

A very large collection in the department of entomology has been made by the State laboratory, and will be sent to the museum at an early day, although we have no cases in which to place them on exhibition at present. The State laboratory has also prepared a full series of alcoholic specimens, embracing reptiles, crustaceans and the smaller fishes, all of which can be sent to the museum as soon as we are prepared to receive them.

We have also received from the State laboratory, during the past year, fourteen mounted mammals and twenty-eight mounted skeletons, the latter embracing representatives of the various orders of vertebrata, and it is exceedingly desirable that the collection in these two departments should be materially increased.

In the department of botany, we have received from the State laboratory 729 species of flowering plants, the choice duplicates from Dr. Geo. Vasey's fine collection, and a large collection of cryptogams has been made and will soon be ready for the museum.

The exchanges made directly from the museum, since the last biennial report, have resulted in the acquisition of about 3,000 additional specimens, including minerals, fossils, recent fresh water and marine shells and corals, nearly all of which, for the want of proper cases for their reception, we have been compelled to place in drawers, where they are inaccessible to the public and where they must remain until such time as the additional cases required for the complete furnishing of the museum room can be obtained. With these cases in position, the number of specimens on exhibition could be easily doubled in sixty days, and the museum would then contain a fair representation of the geological formations of the North American continent, as well as of some of the most important of the European rocks. Without the means to provide for the additional cases needed, the work of the museum cannot go on successfully, and must be virtually suspended.

It would seem hardly necessary that anything should be said here in regard to the objects and influence of such an institution, or of its value as an instrument for the advancement of scientific knowledge among the people of the State, but as these queries may occur to those who have given the subject no special attention, a few words in explanation of its general aims may not be out of place.

To all well-informed persons, anything that might be said in regard to the value and importance of scientific knowledge will seem like a superfluous waste of words, for so great has become the popular interest in the progress of science, and so strong the desire that the rising generation shall receive some instruction in the most important departments of natural history, that these branches have been introduced into most of our graded schools, as well as into all the higher institutions of learning in the State. There are, however, but few collegiate institutions in the State that have the adequate means of furnishing the student with such collections for study as are absolutely necessary to his proper advancement in natural history, and hence the necessity of building up, here at the capital of the State, a free institution like this, to which the public may have free access, and where they may obtain, without other cost than the time necessary to acquire it, a general knowledge of the natural history of the State.

Prof. Youmans, in his recent address before the American Association for the Advancement of Science, on the present method of science-teaching in our schools, says: "Science is an outgrowth of common knowledge, and the scientific method is but a development of the ordinary processes of thought that are employed by everybody. The common knowledge is imperfect because their observations are vague and loose, their reasoning hasty and careless. Their minds are warped by prejudice and deadened by credulity, because they find it easier to invent fanciful explanations of things than to discover the real ones. For thousands of years the knowledge of nature was crude and stationary, because the habits of thought were defective. But with the growing desire to understand how the world around us was constituted, men improved their processes of thinking. They began, and were compelled to begin, by questioning accepted facts and doubting current theories. The first step was one of self-assertion, implying that degree of mental independence which led men to think for themselves. They learned to make their own observations, and to trust them against authority. It was found, as a first and indispensable condition of gaining clear ideas, that the mind must be occupied directly with the subject to be investigated. In this way scientific inquiry at length grew into a method of forming judgments which were characterized by the most vigilant and disciplined precautions against error. * * * The whole body of modern scientific truth, disclosing the order of nature and guiding the development of civilization, must be taken as an attestation of the validity of the scientific method of thought by which these results have been established. We have got rid of all cramping limitations. The scientific method is applicable to all subjects whatever that involve constancy of relations, cause and effect, and conformity to the operation of law. It is applicable wherever evidence is weighed, error got rid of, facts determined and principles established."

I presume no well-informed mind will question the truthful accuracy of the views above expressed, and hence the necessity that the scientific method of thought and reasoning should obtain in every department of human culture, for only by such means can the best and most permanent results be obtained. It is a well established fact that scientific knowledge is the foundation of all industrial arts, and through these come the civilization and wealth of modern times, and hence the best interests of society and the progress of the race demand the encouragement and support of such institutions as are best calculated to promote the advancement of science among the people.

A well regulated museum of natural history, open at all times to the public, becomes at once a popular school of science, where all may become students who choose to avail themselves of such an opportunity. That the State museum is one of the most instructive, as well as attractive, features about the capitol building, is clearly shown by the number of daily visitors, and the time which they devote to the inspection of the specimens contained in the cases; and that it exerts, even in its present unfinished condition, a permanent influence in stimulating a desire for scientific knowledge, especially with the young, I think will not be questioned.

It is a matter of congratulation that I am able to confidently state to those friends of science who were instrumental in the establishment of the museum, that it is now second to no State institution of the kind except the State museum at Albany, N. Y., and with a reasonable appropriation for the coming two years it can be made to surpass even that institution of more than thirty years' standing, in the number and value of its exhibits.

With a lively appreciation of the continued interest in the permanent success of the museum manifested by the members of the board of trustees, and trusting to receive such encouragement from the law-making power of the State as the successful prosecution of the work of the museum may require, I remain,

Very respectfully,

A. H. WORTHEN, Curator.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Under section 5 of the law by which the "State Board of Health" was organized it is provided, that "the clerical duties and the safe keeping of the Bureau of Vital Statistics thus created shall be provided by the Secretary of State."

The Board of Health, in all its duties and deliberations, has no more connection with the duties of the Secretary of State than has the Board of Public Charities or the State Board of Equalization, and I do not see any reason why the Secretary of State should be called upon to furnish the clerks to perform the "clerical duties" of that Board than for the others mentioned. Direct appropriations are made for the pay of the Secretary of that Board and for the expenses of the members thereof, and I would most respectfully suggest that the law be so amended that the Board of Health be authorized to employ its own clerks, and that an appropriation be made therefor.

Since the first of July, 1879, under the appropriation made for that purpose I have employed two clerks especially for the use of the Board of Health, and while their pay-rolls are certified by me, they are (as they should be) under the control of the Secretary of that Board. And for the relief of my successor, I would respectfully suggest that the status of not only this, but other Boards, be more clearly defined in regard to furnishing them with stationery, printing and other supplies, and thus obviate any misunderstanding as to the duty of the Secretary of State or the "custodian of State supplies" that might arise.

PASSENGER ELEVATORS IN THE STATE HOUSE.

As custodian of the State House, my attention has frequently been called by members of the General Assembly, by lawyers, judges, State officers and visitors to the Capitol, to the want of elevators for the use of those who are obliged to visit the various departments in the performance of their official duties, or upon public business.

As is well known to those familiar with the original plans and the unfinished condition of the building, it was intended that elevators should be placed in the rotunda and so arranged that, when in running order, persons could be taken from the first or basement floor and landed on the main floor, on the floor of the Senate or House, and on the floor of the gallery.

To reach the main floor of the Capitol, 56 steps up have to be taken; to reach the floor of the Senate or House, 54 additional steps must be made, and to reach the public galleries 29 additional steps up have to be taken by the people who are obliged to go there if they wish to witness the proceedings of either branch of the General Assembly.

Many times during the session of the General Assembly the steps to the main entrance to the State House are not safe to use, owing to the ice and snow, and elevators would be not only convenient and necessary for the safety of those who are interested, but, in the expediting of business during the sessions of the General Assembly, they would be of great utility.

If the members of the General Assembly so elect, I presume these elevators could be put in and made ready for use in a few weeks after the necessary steps are taken for that purpose.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

In each of the biennial reports from this office which I have had the honor to present, I have called attention to the inoperative and inefficient law now on the statute books in relation to weights and measures, and at each session a bill has been presented for the amendment and improvement of the same. Yet, for some unexplained reason, every bill has been defeated; and, although slightly amended, said law is still very defective, and its results very unsatisfactory.

The Secretary of State is ex-officio State sealer of weights and measures, and that officer has in his possession all the United States standard weights, balances and measures necessary for the performance of his duty, and yet, with a law on our statute books that is optional, and provides that officials may carry out the requirements of the law, instead of providing that they shall do their duty, it is not to be supposed, and it can not be expected that the law will be respected, or its requirements become operative.

In my last report I earnestly suggested that this subject receive the careful and considerate attention of the General Assembly, and I now repeat, in part, what I then said.

The necessity and importance of having a fixed standard of weights and measures, and a law that will, in its provisions, protect both buyer and seller, producer and consumer, is so self-evident that it may be needless for me to call attention to the subject in this report; but as in former reports, I am impelled by a sense of duty to again urgently call attention to what I consider a matter of great importance to the people of Illinois.

There is a law on the Statutes of Illinois relating to weights and measures, but its provisions are so loosely drawn that there is no force in its requirements.

The Secretary of State is ex-officio State Sealer of weights and measures, and in his custody are placed the elaborate and costly machinery (given to the State by the General Government) for the performance of the duty placed upon him, which, together with the duty of county sealers, is set forth in the following sections of the present law, viz:

"§ 9. The Secretary of State shall be ex-officio State sealer of weights and measures, and shall have the care and custody of the authorized public standards of weights and measures. He shall try and prove, by such standards, all weights and measures, scales and beams which may belong to any county, and be sent or brought to him for that purpose by the county sealer, and shall seal such, when found to be accurate, by stamping on them the letter "I" with a seal which he shall have and keep for that purpose,

"§ 10. The county clerk of each county shall be the sealer of weights and measures for the county. He shall procure, at the expense of the county, when authorized by the county board, and not already provided, a full set of weights and measures, scales and beams, which he shall cause to be tried, proved and sealed by the State standards, under the direction of the Secretary of State.

"§ 11. The several county sealers shall try and prove all weights and measures, scales and beams, when requested to do so; and when the same are found or made to conform to the legal standards, they shall seal and mark such weights and measures with a seal to be kept by them for that purpose."

It will be seen in the above that the county clerk cannot comply with the law unless the county board authorizes him to procure the necessary weights and measures. But the law does not provide that the county board shall do their duty, and thus empower the clerk to do his. In section 11 the county clerk is compelled to seal all weights and measures when requested so to do.

What the law ought to require is, that every person who buys or sells any of the articles mentioned in the law, or any other that may be sold by weight or measure, can do so only with weights and measures that bear the seal of inspection of the county sealer of weights and measures.

This would be simple justice to the buyer and seller, and would result in hardship to no one, but would be of great benefit to the public as a mass of consumers, and every one would have the satisfaction of knowing that the law was made for their benefit, and for their protection.

Nothing but a sense of duty as a State official in immediate charge, and responsible for the performance of duties fixed by law, has prompted me in my former reports to allude to this subject, and the same consideration now impels me to again urge it upon the attention of the General Assembly as a matter of sufficient importance to justify a careful consideration by that honorable body.

INCIDENTAL DUTIES AND EXPENSES.

I have heretofore, in this report, called attention to the varied and incidental duties of the Secretary of State, and the necessary attendant expenses in the care of the State House and grounds.

The unfinished State House has naturally been the occasion for the expenditure of much money that otherwise would not have been required.

Not only as a matter of convenience, but as a necessity—being the custodian of the building and grounds—I have been obliged, by the growing demand for room, to finish for occupancy a number of rooms on the first floor of the building, and pay for the same from the incidental appropriation for the care of the building, repairs and improvements of the same. And I have been obliged to have an immense amount of labor done on the grounds of the State House, not only as a necessity, but also to a limited extent, in order to put the same in a condition to eventually result in their adornment.

I have also had that portion lying east and in front of the State House laid off in walks and drives, and laid in asphaltum, making a very excellent and durable pavement. In addition thereto, the unsightly wooden platform and steps at the front of the building have been replaced by brick and stone, which, together with the iron fence on the street line, and also a fountain on the grounds, gives the approach to the Capitol a respectable and pleasing appearance. All of these improvements I have, in my judgment, deemed necessary, and such as were required of me in the discharge of my duty as guardian of the interests of the State; and I do have the satisfaction of knowing that I will transfer to my successor the State House and grounds, and all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, in a very much better condition than when they were placed in my care, and with the consciousness that, in every regard, nothing but the interests of the State and the proper care and custody of the building and grounds have been considered. The labor that has been required to bring about this condition of things has been of much greater magnitude than can be comprehended by any except those who were daily witnesses of the labor performed, and was much more than was or could have been anticipated. Yet, with all that has been done, there is, and will be, until the State House is completed, a steady and imperative demand for repairs, changes and improvements that will be found necessary.

CONVENTIONS AND MEETINGS.

The State House being the property of the people of the State, I deemed it right and proper that its occupancy should be given by me to the various political parties for holding conventions, and to the various societies—horticultural, agricultural, Odd Fellows, Templars, etc., etc.—that might desire to use the same for their meetings. During the past four years the halls of the House of Representatives and the Senate have been used for these purposes, and the care of the rooms and the work necessary to put them in an orderly and cleanly condition after such use falls upon the Secretary of State as custodian of the building, and, as can be readily seen, necessitates the employment of laborers and janitors, and the expenditure of money. I felt that as these bodies were representatives of the people, and that the State House was the people's building, they had the right to use the same for the transaction of all public and legitimate business; and I am confident that in this opinion and decision I will be sustained, not only by your Excellency, but by the people and their representatives in the General Assembly; for, believing that the Secretary of State, as custodian, was the agent of the whole people of the State, I have in these matters, to the best of my judgment, carried out their wishes as I think the people would have them understood.

VISITORS TO THE CAPITOL.

The interest taken in the new State House by our citizens, and the desire to visit and inspect every part of it, is evidenced by the large number of people that daily visit the building. No accurate account of the number has been kept, but no day passes during which there are not from 50 to 100 visitors, and hardly a week passes in the spring, summer and autumn months, that large excursion parties do not visit the State House, bringing from 1000 to 5000 visitors, who throng the corridors, halls, chambers, offices and rooms of the building, and this alone has necessitated the employment of a large number of guides, janitors, and laborers, who are required to show the various parts of the building and keep the same clean and in an orderly condition.

HEATING STATE HOUSE.

To properly heat the immense Capitol and the various offices, has been and will be a source of great expense to the State until the building is finished. The great dome, with its immensity of space, and the many open fissures and windows, acts like a huge funnel, and draws from the corridors and the offices in every part of the building the heated air in immense quantities; to overcome which is a matter of necessity, demanding fuel and labor. When the State House is finished, there will be a saving of at least twenty-five per cent. of what it now costs to heat the building. This alone should be one reason for the completion of the Capitol. In the report of the engineer in charge of the heating department, made to the Secretary of State, he says: "One of the most important matters deserving your attention is the repair or replacement of the boilers in the heating department. These boilers have been in use for the past seven years, and with but comparatively few repairs, and it is necessary that the same should be thoroughly inspected in every part, which might necessitate the replacing with some new boilers. My estimate for the necessary repairs and work, including necessary brick work, would amount to about $3,500, and should not be delayed beyond this winter. There are also a number of pumps in use for the purpose of furnishing water for boilers, and also for pumping water into the reservoir on top of the Capitol building. These pumps require a great deal of care and attention to keep in proper order, two of which are nearly worn out and should be replaced by new ones. There are twenty-six steam traps in the Capitol building, a large number of them being old style and do not do satisfactory work, and should be replaced by new ones of a later and more effective pattern. The elevator engine used during the construction of the State House, and now used to reach the top of the dome, is quite old and nearly worn out, and ought to be replaced by a new one, it being, in my opinion, unsafe for its present use. I would recommend that a Corliss engine be purchased if it is thought best to replace the old one. The radiating surface in the State House is about two hundred and fifty thousand feet, consisting of coils and radiators, and this radiating surface is supplied by steam through a 14-inch pipe, which, in my opinion, is altogether too large, and, in my judgment, it would save about 30 per cent. of fuel, if a ten inch pipe could be substituted, by which an equal amount of heat would be produced. The engineer could carry a higher pressure of steam in the latter case than in the former. The steam pipes in the boiler house and in the tunnel leading to the State House and in the sub-basement, should be covered with some non-conductor of heat and thus save condensation of steam."

In view of this report, made to me by the engineer in charge of the heating, I would respectfully suggest, that it is a subject that is of no little importance, and should receive the attention of the General Assembly and such action as the matter demands.

LIGHTING STATE HOUSE.

The lighting of the State House is also a very expensive matter over which the Secretary of State has no control. Each department of State has the control of the lighting of the various offices necessary for the performance of their work, and, I doubt not, use such economy as their several duties will allow. During the sessions of the General Assembly, the officers of that body have the control of the lighting of the halls of the Senate and House and committee rooms, and a vast amount of gas is then used, and it may be some times unnecessarily. Yet this expense is paid upon vouchers, which must be signed by the Secretary of State upon bills presented by the gas company as per the metres in the State House, and is an expense that is not and can not be controlled by that officer under the law as it now exists.

PERSONAL.

As I am about to retire from my official position to give place to my successor, I desire to take this occasion to express to your Excellency and to all the officers of the executive department my appreciation of the uniform kindness and the many courtesies received, not only from the heads of the various departments, but from all the clerks and other employés in the capitol, during the past four years, and although official life is not a bed of roses, yet I shall ever cherish and hold in kindly remembrance the very many acts of friendship shown me, not only by your Excellency and your predecessors, but also by every one with whom I have had official relations, in all the departments of the State, during the past years.

To those who have been my assistants in every department of this office, and who are now so employed, I desire to acknowledge the faithful and efficient service that has been performed by them, many of whom, during the past eight years, have, by their experience, gained a knowledge of and an insight into the duties specially performed by them that will always make them invaluable in their service to the State.

CONCLUSION.

In submitting this, my last report as Secretary of State, to your Excellency, I have made a number of suggestions and recommendations that seemed to me to be of interest, not only to my successors, but also to the people of this magnificent commonwealth generally, and I hope they will seem to you of enough importance to justify you in calling the attention of the members of the 32d General Assembly to them, with such recommendation as, in your judgment, may be deemed to be for the best interests of the people of this State.

Respectfully yours,

GEO. H. HARLOW,
Secretary of State.
